

Sport and Performance Psychology, M.S.

Degree Offered

- Master of Science

Nature of the Program

The online Master's in Sport and Performance Psychology, offered by the WVU College of Applied Human Sciences, is a flexible graduate program designed to prepare you to optimize performance, well-being, and human potential across a breadth of performance-driven settings such as sports, military, performing arts, and more. This program explores ethical and legal foundations, psychological theory, and evidence-based performance enhancement techniques, with an emphasis on building effective helping relationships, multicultural competence, and understanding human development and individual differences to support performers in reaching their potential. This degree is ideal for both working professionals seeking to advance their career, in addition to providing a strong foundation for those just entering the field.

Admissions for 2027-2028

Applications are reviewed three times per year in advance of each term. Priority deadlines are April 1 for fall admission, October 1 for spring admission, and February 1 for summer admission. Applications received after these dates may be considered on a space-available basis.

Major Learning Outcomes

SPORT AND PERFORMANCE PSYCHOLOGY

Following the completion of this program, graduates will be able to:

- Understand advanced disciplinary knowledge and the primary modes of inquiry that form the basis for ethical and professional evidence-based practice in the field of sport and performance psychology. (Professional Knowledge)
- Apply evidence-informed psychological strategies, theories, and techniques to enhance performance and well-being and meet the differentiated needs of athletes and performers across diverse contexts. (Professional Practice)
- Contribute to the leadership of communities of professional practice in sport and performance psychology as collaborative learners who can facilitate their own continued development and that of others. (Professional Leadership)

Degree Progress

The School of Sport Sciences requires the following milestones for all students. According to the graduate catalog, students will receive a yearly evaluation. Students who are either not making adequate degree progress or who are failing to uphold professional standards may receive notice of probation, suspension or dismissal. Students may be notified of academic consequences outside of routine evaluation processes if an issue must be addressed immediately.

Each year, no later than the first day of classes of the Fall semester, the department will distribute an updated version of the CAHS Graduate Student Handbook, which includes links to program-specific handbooks.

BENCHMARKS

- Achieve a minimum GPA of 2.75 in coursework to graduate
- Satisfactory Progress
- Students may be dismissed from their program if their GPA falls below a 2.5.
- Students below a 2.75 are considered on probation.
