History

Degrees Offered

• Master of Arts
• Doctor of Philosophy

Nature of the Program

The Department of History offers graduate work in the history of Africa, Asia, Europe, Latin America, public history, the United States including Appalachia/regional, and world history. In addition to our core areas of strength, the department encourages research that is comparative and transnational in perspective and scope. Faculty research and teaching interests are clustered thematically around four areas: Gender and Kinship, Imperial and Postcolonial Societies, Labor and Political Economy, and War and Society. Our program is designed to give students flexibility to create a plan of study that matches their interests, while at the same time provide a breadth of training in different fields that will prepare students in historiography, research methods, and teaching approaches. Students can select concentrations leading to preparation for careers in teaching and scholarship and as specialists for various branches of government, business, and public service. Students in the program are normally expected to pursue the degrees of master of arts or doctor of philosophy.

TRANSATLANTIC OPTION FOR THE MASTER OF ARTS

The Department of History has launched a new transatlantic program in international history and security studies in partnership with Collegium Civitas, located in Warsaw, Poland, beginning fall 2018. The program is designed as a two-year plan of study consisting of 60 U.S. credit hours, or 120 European Credit Transfer and Accumulation System credits. Students completing the program earn half of these credits at WVU and the other half at Collegium Civitas. Following a successful completion of all requirements, including the thesis defense, two master’s degrees will be conferred—one in history from WVU, and the other in international relations from Collegium Civitas.

WVU students will normally spend their first year of studies at WVU and their second year at CC. Students from Collegium Civitas will spend their first year in Warsaw and their second year in Morgantown. Defense of the joint MA thesis will be held on the premises of both institutions, physically and virtually, with participation by both WVU and CC faculty.

All requirements of the program must be met and credits transferred between the institutions before either the U.S. degree from WVU, or the European degree from Collegium Civitas can be issued. As a result, the two degrees, though coming from separate institutions, are awarded simultaneously.

Admissions

M.A. IN HISTORY

Students seeking admission to the regular master of arts program should have the equivalent of a bachelor’s degree in history. Applicants with a degree in a different subject area may be required to make up deficiencies. A minimum grade point average (GPA) or 3.0 in history courses is expected.
TRANSATLANTIC OPTION
Students who wish to pursue the transatlantic program in international history and security studies should apply as they would for the regular M.A. in History. The statement of purpose should highlight relevant background and reasons for interest in the international history and security studies program. Prospective students must meet the same criteria for admission as applicants to the regular M.A. program.

M.A. IN PUBLIC HISTORY ADMISSION
Students apply for admission to the public history program as they would for the regular M.A. in History. The statement of purpose should highlight relevant background and reasons for interest in public history. Students in public history should have an undergraduate degree in history. Applicants with a degree in a different subject area may be required to make up deficiencies.

PH.D. ADMISSION
Students seeking admission to the doctor of philosophy program should have the equivalent of an M.A. in History. The statement of purpose should indicate your goals as a history graduate student and the area in history in which you expect to concentrate. A minimum grade point average (GPA) or 3.0 in history courses is expected.

DIRECT ADMISSION TRACK TO PH.D. PROGRAM
Students who have compiled an outstanding record in an undergraduate history major may apply for direct admission to the doctor of philosophy program. They are not required to obtain a master's degree. Direct admission to the Ph.D. program is highly selective and limited to exceptionally qualified students with superior standing in their bachelor’s degree. Students of this caliber are generally expected to have a cumulative grade point average (GPA) of 3.9 or higher. In addition, students must provide evidence that they have experience conducting a substantial piece of original historical research, such as a senior honors thesis or major capstone paper.

List of Admission Requirements:
• See the steps to apply for admissions and access the application here (https://graduateadmissions.wvu.edu/how-to-apply/)
• Transcripts from all institutions attended
• Three letters of recommendation written by people in a position to evaluate your academic strengths
• Resume that indicates your past education, professional and voluntary experiences
• Statement of purpose that indicates your goals as a history graduate student and the area in history in which you expect to concentrate. Applicants must clearly indicate which graduate program they are seeking admission to (the M.A. in History, M.A. in Public History, M.A. in History with Transatlantic Option, The Ph.D. in History, or Ph.D. in History with direct admission).
• Writing sample that is a piece of original research, such as a senior honors or master's thesis, major capstone or research seminar paper, or a term paper written for an advanced history course
• GRE scores are not required but will be considered if they are provided

International Applicants:
• See the steps to apply for admissions and access the application here (https://graduateadmissions.wvu.edu/how-to-apply/)
• International applications should view additional requirements here (http://catalog.wvu.edu/graduate/graduateeducationatwestvirginiauniversity/#internationaltext) and here (https://graduateadmissions.wvu.edu/how-to-apply/apply-for-2020-2021/international-graduate-applicant/)
• Language proficiency is required in order to hold a graduate teaching assistantship. See here (https://elli.wvu.edu/testing-resources/english-proficiency-gtas/).

Application Deadlines:
• The graduate programs in History admit for the fall semester only
• Completed applications to the Ph.D. should be received by January 15th
• Completed applications for the M.A. program, for those who wish to be considered for funding, should be received by February 1st
• Completed applications for the M.A. program, without consideration for funding, should be received by April 1st
• Exceptional Ph.D. applicants may be nominated by the History program for competitive University Fellowships. Qualified applicants will be notified if they are nominated. More information on WVU fellowships can be found here (https://graduateeducation.wvu.edu/fellowships/).

Certain application requirements may be waived based on a preliminary review of an application by the program.

Major Code: 1449 (M.A., Ph.D., both in History)

Degree Progress

M.A. IN HISTORY

Students will be evaluated annually. If adequate progress is not made, students may be placed on probation or suspended from the program. All students should complete a plan of study by the end of their second semester. Students who choose the thesis option should defend their thesis proposal prior to the beginning of the semester in which they intend to graduate, and submit and defend their thesis during the semester in which they intend to graduate. Students who choose the examination option should take HIST 795 and complete written and oral examinations during the semester in which they intend to graduate.

M.A. IN PUBLIC HISTORY

Student will be evaluated annually by the program coordinator. If adequate progress is not made, students may be placed on probation or dismissed from the program. All students should complete a plan of study by the end of their second semester. HIST 614 should be completed by the end of the student's third semester in the program.

PH.D.

Students will be evaluated on a yearly basis. If adequate progress is not made, students may be placed on probation or dismissed from the program. Students should complete a plan of study by the end of their second semester. Students typically complete comprehensive exams at the end of their fourth semester or beginning of their fifth semester, defend their dissertation prospectus during their fifth or sixth semester, and defend and submit their dissertation within five years of completing their comprehensive exams.
