Digital Marketing Communications, M.S.

Degree Offered
- Master of Science

Nature of the Program
The Digital Marketing Communications (https://marketingcommunications.wvu.edu/academics/ms-digital-marketing-communications/) graduate program is offered exclusively online with no on-campus classroom attendance required. Students may select between an intense, one-year completion plan, as well as a more flexible schedule that allows them to balance between other personal and professional responsibilities while completing the program over 18 months to two years.

In the Digital Marketing Communications master's program, students will gain the knowledge and skills to communicate and create dialogue with today’s modern audience. Program topics also include building trust, selling, and maximizing customer long-term value/creating customer advocates who bring you more customers.

The program is taught by a diverse instructors who are recognized leaders in their fields. These scholar-practitioners provide a carefully balanced blend of academic theory and practical skills. They teach our “learn-it-today, use-it-tomorrow” curriculum, which provides valuable, practical knowledge that can be immediately applied to a student's current career. Many Digital Marketing Communications students continue to work full-time while earning their degree.

All Digital Marketing Communications program courses are asynchronous, enabling students to participate at any time, from anywhere in the world. While no on-campus residency is required to complete the degree, the Reed College of Media hosts an annual conference to provide students and faculty an opportunity to network in-person and explore the latest innovations in the ever-changing marketing communications landscape. Learn more about the Integrate Conference (https://integrate.wvu.edu/).

Graduate Assistantships
Students in the Digital Marketing Communications major who secure a graduate assistant position in any academic or non-academic unit on campus will be eligible to receive a waiver equivalent to the University tuition portion of their total tuition for Digital Marketing Communications coursework, as well as any stipend/compensation offered by the unit hosting the position. Payment of the remaining Program Tuition and Online Learning Fee is the student's responsibility.

Double Majors
Due to overlapping curricula and an accelerated course load students are not permitted to double-major in Digital Marketing Communications and Integrated Marketing Communications or Data Marketing Communications.

Program Format
The program’s academic year consists of five accelerated terms corresponding to the University’s existing parts of term: Early Fall (August–October), Late Fall (October–December), Early Spring (January–March), Late Spring (March–May) and Summer (May–July).

Admissions
Admission to the Digital Marketing Communications online graduate program at West Virginia University is competitive and the total number of available seats for each entry term is limited. Admission to the program is based on a holistic review of each applicant's academic history, years of relevant professional experience, and writing ability and intent (personal statement).

Students are admitted to the Digital Marketing Communications program three times per year, in the Early Fall (August), Early Spring (January) and Summer (May) admission terms. The IMC program utilizes a rolling admissions process and qualified applicants will be reviewed and admitted as their applications are received.
