

Integrated Marketing Communications, M.S.

Degree Offered

- Master of Science

Nature of the Program

Rooted in the tradition of academic excellence of WVU, the Reed College of Media's Integrated Marketing Communications (IMC) graduate program (<http://imc.wvu.edu/>) has developed a national reputation for hands-on, industry relevant education. The program was named the "Outstanding Online Program" for 2015 by the Online Learning Consortium, the leading professional organization devoted to advancing the quality of online learning worldwide. The program was also named a finalist in the PRWeek US Awards 2016 "Education Program of the Year" category and was named a "Program of Excellence" by the WVU Board of Governors in 2020.

The IMC program is offered exclusively online with no on-campus classroom attendance required. The program is constantly evolving to reflect our changing industry and ensure a relevant, highly-customizable graduate experience for students. At the center of the curriculum are an introductory course and three core courses, which provide all students with a solid marketing communications foundation. The degree is enhanced by selecting two of four "specialty" course options and three of nearly 30 elective course options. Through the extensive specialty and elective courses, students are able to focus their graduate studies on their individual areas of interest or to position them for a specific career path. The capstone course is taken in the student's final term. In this final course, students apply their knowledge to create an IMC campaign for a real-world client. They can choose to work on a client of their preference or on a national client provided by the instructor.

The program offers specializations in the following Areas of Emphasis (<https://marketingcommunications.wvu.edu/academics/ms-integrated-marketing-communications/#specializationscontainer>):

- Creative Strategy
- Data Marketing Communications
- Digital and Social Media
- Healthcare
- Higher Education Marketing
- Management
- Public Relations Leadership

IMC instructors are recognized leaders in their fields. These scholar-practitioners provide a carefully balanced blend of academic theory and practical skills. They teach our "learn-it-today, use-it-tomorrow" curriculum, which provides valuable, practical knowledge that can be immediately applied to a student's current career. Most WVU IMC students continue to work full-time while earning their degree.

All IMC courses are asynchronous, allowing students to participate at any time, from anywhere in the world. While no on-campus residency is required to complete the degree, the program hosts an annual Integrate conference to provide students and faculty an opportunity to network in-person and explore the latest innovations in the ever-changing IMC landscape. Learn more about the program's Integrate Conference (<http://integrate.wvu.edu>).

Graduate Assistantships

Students in the IMC program who secure a graduate assistant position at any academic or non-academic unit on campus will be eligible to receive a waiver equivalent to the University tuition portion of their total tuition for IMC coursework, as well as any stipend/compensation offered by the unit hosting the position. Payment of the remaining Program Tuition and Online Learning Fee is the student's responsibility.

Program Format

The program's academic year consists of five accelerated terms: Early Fall (August–October), Late Fall (October–December), Early Spring (January–March), Late Spring (March–May) and Summer (May–July).

Due to the rigor of IMC program courses, students should register for no more than two courses in any IMC term. Most students who work full-time indicate that one to two course(s) per term is manageable. Students are encouraged to work with their advisor to create a customized a course schedule that fits their life and supports their professional aspirations. Most students complete the IMC master's degree in approximately two years. However, University policy allows students up to eight years to complete a master's degree; the IMC program model supports students in taking terms off as needed to balance their graduate studies with personal and professional obligations.

Those who wish to complete IMC coursework but either already have a master's degree or are not planning to pursue a full master's degree are invited to apply to one of the college's online certificate programs in integrated marketing communications, creative strategy, data marketing communications, digital & social media, healthcare, higher education marketing or public relations leadership.

Admissions

Admission to the Integrated Marketing Communications online graduate program at West Virginia University is competitive and the total number of available seats for each entry term is limited. Admission to the program is based on a holistic review of each applicant's academic history, years of relevant professional experience, writing ability and intent (personal statement).

Students may be admitted to the IMC program three times per year, in Early Fall (August), Early Spring (January) and Summer (May). Please contact the program for more information on upcoming admission terms. The IMC program utilizes a rolling admissions process and qualified applicants will be reviewed and admitted as their applications are received.

The Integrated Marketing Communications program utilizes university GPA admission requirements (<http://catalog.wvu.edu/graduate/graduateeducationatwestvirginiauniversity/#classificationtext>).

Visit the IMC website (<http://imc.wvu.edu/>) for comprehensive information about the online graduate program, including faculty bios, curriculum and course information, details on the application and admissions process, and to register for a free online information session (<http://imc.wvu.edu/admissions/info-sessions/>).

Students must complete an officially sanctioned minor outside the College of Media. However, students may pursue the Sport Communication minor, which is offered jointly by the College of Media and the College of Physical Activity and Sport Sciences, or the Interactive Media and Design minor, which is offered jointly by the College of Media and the College of Creative Arts. Students completing a dual-degree are exempt from the requirement to complete a minor. Students should consult their advisor before starting a minor. Some minors require 18 hours of coursework instead of 15 hours, and some minor courses are offered online primarily during summer terms.

General Education and Elective Credits can vary - students must have a minimum of 120 credit hours total to complete the degree.

College of Media students must take a minimum of 72 credit hours outside of the College of Media in non journalism/mass communications courses.

Reed College of Media minors must be selected from the following: Advertising, Entertainment Media, Event Planning, Health Promotion, Interactive Design for Media, Journalism, Public Relations, Sport Communication, Strategic Social Media. Students must complete unique credit hours for each of their minors. Because courses can only be counted toward one minor, students may replace duplicate course requirements within their College of Media minors with College of Media core courses (i.e., MDIA 215S, MDIA 225S, JRL 328).

Total credit hours: 138

Note: Some minors may require online course enrollment during Summer terms to complete. Students should check with their advisor about individual minor requirements and expected course availabilities. Additional online course fees apply.

This suggested plan of study assumes three minors requiring 15 unique hours each. Minors that require more than 15 hours can be completed by substituting the extra minor hours in place of elective hours.

Minor courses may not be used to fulfill both a minor requirement and a General Education Foundation requirement, except JRL 101. Minors used as part of the MDS requirements may not be used to complete GEF 8.

Minor courses may not be used to fulfill the requirements for more than one minor. All Reed College minors and shared college minors must be completed with their own unique hours.

In the event of course overlap between minors, the Reed College of Media's Writing and Communications Skills Requirement, JRL 215, may be substituted in place of the overlapped course within one of the minors. When used to fulfill both requirements, the number of credit hours associated with the course will calculate into total earned credit hours only once.

In the event of additional course overlap among minors, JRL 225 (Media Tools & Applications) and/or JRL 328 (Media Law and Ethics) may be used as replacement courses. Other minor course overlaps may be replaced with Reed College of Media's coursework at the 200-level or higher, at the approval and discretion of the College.

If completed prior to admission into the program, ADV 215, PR 215, and/or ADPR 215 may be substituted as equivalent 215 coursework within Reed College minors or shared college minors, at the discretion of the College.

Of total earned credit hours, a minimum of 30 credit hours must be at the 200-level or higher, and an additional minimum of 30 credit hours must be at the 300-level or higher.

A grade of C- or higher must be earned in all major- and minor-required courses.

Students have the option to use elective hours to pursue a fourth minor to complement their studies.

Students in the MDS BA + MS ABM program can share a total of 12 credits, in IMC 410, IMC 511, IMC 512, and IMC 513 across both their graduate and undergraduate degrees.
