Nature of Programs

The College of Education and Human Services (CEHS) is divided into five academic departments: Counseling, Rehabilitation Counseling, and Counseling Psychology; Curriculum and Instruction/Literacy Studies; Learning Sciences and Human Development; Special Education; and Communication Sciences and Disorders. The college’s faculty and staff are located in Allen Hall on the Evansdale campus.

Undergraduate programs in the College of Education and Human Services (CEHS) focus on preparing professionals whose efforts serve the needs of families in schools, homes, clinics, agencies, and other community settings. The college offers undergraduate programs in child development and family studies and in speech-language pathology. The college offers a four-year undergraduate program in elementary education and a multidisciplinary program in human services. CEHS also offers a BMDS undergraduate and master, five-year teacher preparation program in elementary and science education and the five-year program in secondary education. Students in secondary education who wish to teach English, mathematics, social studies, or world languages earn a baccalaureate degree from the Eberly College of Arts and Sciences in their content area and a master of arts in secondary education from CEHS. All programs integrate liberal studies, coursework the content area, and clinical experiences in a professional schools/settings. CEHS cooperates with other schools and colleges at WVU to prepare teachers in agriculture, art, music, and physical education. The degree programs that prepare students to teach in these areas are housed in the Davis College of Agriculture, Natural Resources, and Design; the College of Creative Arts; and the College of Physical Activity and Sports Sciences.

Other resources in the colleges are: the International Center for Disability Information, the Center for Teaching and Learning Technologies, the Speech and Hearing Clinics, the Center for Democracy and Citizenship Education; the Office of Diversity and Global Initiatives; the Center for Student Advising and Records; the Student Ambassador program, and the Reading Clinic.

Accreditation

West Virginia University is fully accredited for the preparation of teachers by the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE, now CAEP), and programs are approved by the West Virginia State Department of Education. The Ed.D. and Ph.D. are the highest degrees approved and offered. Students in elementary and secondary education must meet University requirements for admission, retention, and graduation, and West Virginia Department of Education requirements for teacher certification in West Virginia.

The Child Development and Family Studies Area of Emphasis in Early Childhood Education is fully accredited by the National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC).

Graduation/Certification Requirements

To be eligible for graduation, students must do the following:

- Comply with the general regulations of the University concerning entrance, advanced standing, classification, examination, grades, grade points, testing, and other requirements, policies and procedures listed in the undergraduate and graduate catalogs.
- Complete required courses and other CEHS program requirements.
- Adhere to CEHS general policies and procedures.
- Apply for graduation.

GENERAL REQUIREMENTS FOR PROFESSIONAL CERTIFICATION

Individual candidates must be recommended to the State of West Virginia Department of Education for professional certification by the Certification Officer, Michael Sekula. To be eligible to receive a professional license, the WVU applicant must have done the following:

- Met the minimum State requirements.
- Met the University and college program degree requirements.
- Achieved a grade point average of at least 2.75 on the total of college credits earned and on the hours earned in professional education, and 2.5 in each subject specialization.
• Demonstrated competence in supervised practicum and internship.
• Complied with the West Virginia Board of Education regulations for Teacher Certification.
• Be recommended for certification by the Certification Officer in the College of Education and Human Services.

RECIPROCAL CERTIFICATION AGREEMENTS
West Virginia, at the time of this publication, has reciprocal agreements with most other states for teacher certification. Inquiries about reciprocity should be directed to the Center for Student Advising and Records, 710 Allen Hall.

CALCULATION OF GRADE POINT AVERAGES
The West Virginia State Department of Education system of calculating grade point averages for certification purposes differs in some respects from the WVU system. For certification, all coursework attempted at WVU and at other institutions of collegiate rank will be considered. If a student earns a grade of D, F, or U in any course taken no later than the term when he or she has attempted a total of sixty hours, and the student repeats this course, the second grade earned will be used in determining the grade point average. The first grade will be disregarded.

The teacher education program uses the West Virginia State Department of Education system of calculating grade point averages only for admission to teacher education programs and professional internships, and for assessing teaching field and education averages. Academic performance and eligibility for graduation are assessed by the system used by WVU and other institutions governed by the West Virginia Higher Education Policy Commission.

Degree Designation Learning Goals
BACHELOR OF ARTS (BA)

Bachelor of Arts (BA) in Teacher Education
A primary mission of both the BA in Elementary Education program and BMDS, as part of the 5 year teacher education program, is to prepare individuals for a changing teaching profession. Teachers influence many facets of education including students, parents, school policies and procedures, curriculum design, instructional materials, and classroom environment. Educational issues must be grounded in current research on best practices and deep reflection on ways to implement them in teaching practice. In response, pre-service teacher candidates develop the following:

• Skills in assessing classroom dynamics and finding solutions to classroom issues from diverse perspectives
• Ability to construct an effective learning environment, in which all children have opportunities to learn
• Knowledge of current, best practices in education
• Ability to reflect on one’s own actions and how those actions affect others
• Practice-based research skills that inform the teacher about student learning
• Knowledge of how to incorporate inquiry-informed instructional design into teaching practice

BACHELOR OF SCIENCE (BS)

Bachelor of Science (BS) in Speech Pathology and Audiology
The Bachelor of Science degree program in Speech Pathology and Audiology develops and integrates

• Knowledge and skills of central principles, practices, facts, concepts, theories, and tools within discipline of Communication Sciences and Disorders

• Practice in analyzing problems, proposing alternatives, drawing inferences, developing imaginative approaches, constructing predictions, and making reasoned decisions using appropriate information resources and analytical tools
• Application of scientific and statistical principles to problem solving
• Opportunities for defining relationships between the student’s degree program and future professional goals

BACHELOR OF SCIENCE (BS)

Bachelor of Science (BS) in Child Development and Family Studies

The BS degree in Child Development and Family Studies offers two curriculum options: birth through pre-kindergarten and family and youth.

Students in the birth through pre-kindergarten option of Child Development and Family Studies will acquire:

• Knowledge of the social, emotional, intellectual, and physical development of young children in the family and preschool contexts.
• Skills in implementing appropriate curricula as well as developmental and performance assessments.
• Ability to construct positive and enriched early childhood environments where the young have the opportunity to develop skills for lifelong learning.
• Knowledge of current best practices that prepare young children to be competent, independent learners.
• Ability to reflect on one’s knowledge and skills of teaching and interacting with young children.
• Knowledge of how young children learn in order to prepare educational activities in inclusive environments.
• Extensive field experiences with various ages of young children—infants, toddlers and preschoolers and young school age.

Students in the family and youth option of Child Development and Family Studies will acquire:

• Knowledge in human growth and development, adolescent development, human sexuality, family issues and interaction, youth concerns and issues, and related topics.
• Understanding of the various social contextual influences on adolescent development and family functioning and the interactive relationships between families and other societal institutions such as schools.
• Various strategies for working with adolescents and families in various social service and community-based context.
• Hands-on experience working with children, adolescents, and/or families at community agencies.
• Awareness of the multiple career paths for students in this area of study along with options and opportunities for graduate studies.

BACHELOR OF MULTIDISCIPLINARY STUDIES (BMDS)

The Bachelor of Multidisciplinary Studies in Human Services/Education degree integrates the following:

• Knowledge of and aptitude with principles, practices, facts, concepts, theories and tools in three minor areas of concentration, two of which must be from CEHS
• Breadth of knowledge and cross-disciplinary communication
• Flexibility and problem solving.
• Analysis of problems from divergent perspectives.
• Application of multidisciplinary techniques to communicate the strengths of their self-chosen course of study.
• Practices derived from specialized knowledge in individual disciplines to analyze problems from divergent perspectives, recognize ambiguities, propose alternatives, draw inferences, develop imaginative approaches, construct predictions, and make reasoned decisions using appropriate information resources and analytical tools
• Multidisciplinary techniques fostering students’ ability to communicate strengths of their self-chosen course of study
• Opportunities for defining relationships between the student’s degree program and post-baccalaureate goals

Admission

Admission, curriculum, and degree requirements of the various degree programs of the College of Education and Human Services are provided in each program section in this catalog. It is the responsibility of the student to take steps to insure that he or she is properly informed of the degree requirements and/or the certification standards being sought. Since certification requirements are changed periodically by the West Virginia Department of Education, the fulfillment of certification requirements as presented in this catalog cannot guarantee compliance with the most recent requirements. Students are, therefore, encouraged to seek the counsel of members of the faculty, their advisors, and the college certification officer on matters pertaining to degree and certification requirements.

HUMAN SERVICES MINOR

MINOR CODE - U112

People employed in human services agencies are there to help improve the lives of the people they serve. A minor in human services meets the increasing need of public and private sector employers for paraprofessionals. Students who complete a minor in human services may be employed through public agencies, hospitals, government-sponsored housing or clinics, and some criminal justice offices. These jobs can be both personally and professionally rewarding. There are many opportunities for people to gain experience that can lead to graduate education and certification and licensure in counseling and other helping professions.

The fifteen credit hour online program of study for the undergraduate minor will focus on an overview of the human service profession, multiculturalism and diversity, communication skills, career preparation and introductory helping skills. Graduates will be prepared to work in social services, mental health and substance abuse agencies as entry level counselor aides, or in other related paraprofessional positions under the guidance of counselors, psychologists, nurses and social workers.

The minor is designed to develop better interpersonal and intergroup skills. While primarily regarded as a study of organizational, workplace behaviors, the human services field is emerging as a broader study of sociological and emotional motivation.
