West Virginia University Institute of Technology

A Short History of WVU Tech

The West Virginia University Institute of Technology (WVU Tech) was established in February 1895 under the name, Montgomery Preparatory School located in Montgomery, WV. In its earliest years, the school provided academic preparation for students from Southern West Virginia who were bound for West Virginia University. With the passing of time, as new community needs emerged the school changed in response to these needs. In 1917, the curriculum became vocational in nature and the school was renamed the West Virginia Trade School. In 1921, the school became a junior college, the New River State School. Ten years later, the school name was changed to New River State College reflecting its mandate to provide baccalaureate education. Then, in 1941, when technical and business programs were added to serve regional businesses and industries, the college became the West Virginia Institute of Technology. In 1952, baccalaureate degrees in engineering were added. In 1996, the college was named West Virginia University Institute of Technology, when it became a regional campus of West Virginia University. Subsequently, in 2006, WVU Tech became a full division of West Virginia University. In Fall 2016, following the acquisition of a campus in Beckley, WV, WVU Tech offered classes on both the Montgomery and Beckley campuses for one academic year. WVU Tech moved in its entirety to Beckley in the summer of 2017. WVU Tech offers a broad array of baccalaureate degrees in business, science, the humanities and social sciences, and offers 9 degrees in engineering, computer science and engineering technology that are ABET accredited and have received national rankings. Degrees include a general education curriculum that fosters educational breadth and career skills, and students engage in a wide range of service learning, athletic and extra-curricular activities. A WVU Nursing degree is offered on the Beckley Campus through WVU Tech, and the campus is also home to the Raleigh County Co-operative Extension Service and the LaunchLab to promote regional economic success.

At WVU Tech, a division campus where the educational mission is of paramount importance, faculty pursue an active agenda of research and scholarship which contributes to the vibrancy of their teaching and current knowledge in their fields.

WELL-BEING AND QUALITY OF LIFE

The Smith-Lever Act of 1914 created a Cooperative Extension Service for each land-grant institution. The purpose of the Extension Service was to disseminate the findings of the universities’ agricultural stations and provide training and programs on home economics and other practical subjects. WVU has sustained its commitment to the state by supporting an Extension Service office with a faculty presence in all of West Virginia’s 55 counties, staffed by faculty county agents.

The educational programs and initiatives of the WVU Extension Service focus on service to the state and exemplify West Virginia University’s commitment to the public good by connecting the knowledge and research of WVU with citizen and community needs. The Extension Service’s programs are driven by four major initiatives: (1) 4-H youth development; (2) family and health; (3) agriculture and natural resources; and (4) community, workforce, and economic development.

The Raleigh County Extension office is located in the Neville Street Building on the WVU Tech campus in Beckley.
